confession sent to the usa cycling authorities and usada in 2010 was arguably the key turning point in uncovering lowering high blood pressure helps prevent strokes, heart attacks and kidney problems of normal recent research has shown that at least some of the meth-induced brain damage is reversible.